THE CITY SCHOOLS.

The new Science building is almost complete. At least one new course will be added this year.

Miss Robbie Nicol has spent the summer in Peabody College for Teachers, doing advanced work in home economics. It pays to get teachers who keep in touch with the best.

The new machinery has been installed in the manual training department. Whatever the line of work, the people have found out that the place to find the best is in the Bryan High School.

That a heavy per cent of that big 1916 graduating class will go to college the coming year means that pupils get inspiration as well as education in the Bryan High School.

School opens Monday, September 18, 1916, as ordered by the board of trustees. The City Institute comes the week before, beginning on Monday, September 11.

Bagley's School Discipline and Terman's Measurement of Intelligence are the new books all teachers are to get and study for the City Institute. An attempt will be made to get all Bryan teachers to thinking over the latest and most promising educational movements.

Janitor T. W. Cole has already been at work cleaning the buildings, oiling the floors and getting ready for school.

Swimming, hunting and fishing in the Ozarks tells the story of the present employment of Principal Simpson. First, however, he did a good summer's work in the University of Missouri, for Bryan's schools stand for progress and Simpson is a busy man every where and always.

In certain classes in Columbia University this summer the work of two or three of the best pupils was read to the class, and Miss Wesa Weddington was there. That means that her work was read to the class, for, anywhere she goes, she will always be one of the few at the head. Bryan High School uses that kind of teachers and that is one reason why Bryan High School is also at the head of the list of schools.

Will there be another large graduating class for the coming year? Well, a large number have done good work and have credits enough to enter the class. As to whether or not they finish, that will depend upon their work.
W. C. LAWSON,
Superintendent.

USE LESS SWISS EMBROIDERY.

Trade With America Falling Off From Year to Year.

Berne, Switzerland, Aug. 23.—That the Swiss embroidery trade is more and more losing its American market appears from recently published figures. While in 1907 the value of Swiss embroidery exported to the United States was 76 million francs, it fell to 30 millions in 1914 and to 26 millions in 1915. The decrease is attributed to increased American production.

In the last decade Swiss embroidery exportation to England increased from 16 million to 52 million francs. The total Swiss exportation since 1896 is valued at over 30,094,000,000 francs.
